Located near the Redondo Beach Park

As we become increasingly aware of the impact that our buildings are having on the health of our bodies, our wallets, and nature—more people are exploring alternatives to the conventional methods and materials of construction.

This presentation will explore the benefits, limitations, and concerns regarding modern construction. Within a framework of natural laws and guiding principles, the presentation will discuss natural indigenous and appropriate technology, sustainable and integrative design, & natural and green building techniques—with an emphasis on practical and affordable solutions.
